

Albion

Albion Press Quotes

Albion are known for profound lyrics, soaked in dark romanticism with a symbolic topping and a touch of misty reflection, and in 'Lions' you are guaranteed to find exactly that. Listening to this track only once just won't do - it's a gift that keeps on giving, and each time you listen to those lyrics, new facets of this peculiar imagery come out. It's a dreamy groovy ballad that makes you reflect on things you otherwise probably wouldn't have thought of, mesmerising and decadent.

Live Circuits' review of Albion's 2018 single Lions. Zine, Issue 4, March 2019

Albion reviews

Albion's set was upbeat, hungry and delivered with more urgency than I've seen from this band before. The mental picture I've taken away from it is one of their final song: a stage invasion, complete with the crowd up there with the boys shaking and shimmying as the track echoed out into the East London night. If that's not a sight that the people can see at the Isle of Wight festival 2019, then I don't know what they're smoking.

Alicia Carpenter's, reviewing of Albion's Isle of Wight Festival quarter final performance at Zigfrid von Underbelly, 2019